DESTINATION ZERO A JOURNEY TO ZERO HARM

Date: 27/10/2017

Ref: 2017-SBR164 (Part 3 – Look Around)

Title: Look Up, Look Down, Look Around

Today's bulletin is the third in a series of three that encourage the practise of situational awareness and reducing harm through "Look Up, Look Down, Look Around". Inadequate situational awareness is a casual factor in many of our accidents.

By practising "Look Up, Look Down, Look Around" as we go about our daily lives, it will become regular routine and will form a desirable and harm-reducing habit. Talking about "Look Up, Look Down, Look Around" with our colleagues will also help reinforce this habit and will demonstrate that we actively care for the safety and health of others.

Actions:

While conducting tasks, take a 360° view. Is there anything that may harm you or others? If so, rectify or avoid. Could anything change? Could anything or anyone enter your working area? Let's commit to practise "Look Up, Look Down, Look Around" in our daily lives.

Look Around... Is there anything or anyone around you that could cause you harm? Could you and the activity you are performing cause harm to others? Our knowledge, experience and learning enables us to understand what is going on around us and helps us determine if it is safe. This assessment of our working environment should occur continually.

Don't let these obstacles catch you out.
