

SAFETY, HEALTH AND WELLBEING

Bulletin

DESTINATION ZERO A JOURNEY TO ZERO HARM

Date: 25/10/2017

Ref: 2017-SBR164 (Part 2 – Look Down)

Title: Look Up, Look Down, Look Around

Following on from yesterday’s extraordinary brief for European Health and Safety at Work Week 2017 and the introduction of JLR’s approach to further reducing harm by encouraging the practise of situational awareness through “Look Up, Look Down, Look Around”, today’s bulletin is the second in a series of three that compliment this concept.

When hazards (something that has the potential to cause harm) and people interact unplanned events can occur namely, accidents. Let’s avoid these situations by demonstrating through practise the ability to scan the environment around us, sensing harm, challenges and opportunities while maintaining the ability to safely conduct our activities – wherever we are.

Actions:

While conduting tasks, remain aware of your surroundings. Prior to commencing any task, consider how the current surroundings may pose a risk to your health or safety. Consider things that may change.

Look Down... Is there anything at or below eye level that you need to make safe or avoid? ANTICIPATE; will your next step or move place you in a position of risk where you or others may be harmed? In addition to what you can see use your senses to assess the unseen – vibration, temperature, noise etc.

Don't let these obstacles catch you out.

Related documents European Safety Week 2017
Look Up, Look Down, Look Around visual materials

Author Safety

